

The system should process the data at a very high speed. So, Seeing the amount of data being processed, the system should also have enough storage capacity to keep it